superintendent's message

TO CADETS OF 1963:

It is always with reluctance we say goodbye, even for vacation time. But it is with a deeper feeling that we bid our graduates adieu and wish them Godspeed. We are more apt to see you underclassmen in September, but our Seniors are usually scattered to the "four winds." Regardless, Cadets, we hope you shall cherish the memory of this school year at Peacock, your experiences, your hours of labor, recreation, repose, and your friendships formed while here. May you always feel we shall be here to be called on, if we may be of further service and counsel.

JANICE SCHILO

In deep appreciation for the effort and hard work, the Senior Class of 1963 proudly dedicates this year's annual to our four girl cheerleaders: Dottie Peacock, Janice Schilo, Linda Pace, and Jane McCurdy. During the past three years, they have spent many long hours preparing cheers for the pep rallies and football games to support our team both in victory and defeat. We would like to bestow this recognition upon them as a token of our appreciation for the spirit and cooperation they have shown to the Cadet Corps.

fifth platoon

drum and bugle

The band this year at Peacock was exceptional in that new and different instruments were used for the first time. The way in which they were put to use made an outstanding musical group.

This year has been one of the most successful ones in the history of the Combat Platoon of Peacock. The members of this team learn all the essentials a true military person must learn sometime during his period of training.

This intensive training includes the art of self-defense; maneuvers, offensive tactics, extended-order drill, and many other important factors of modern-type warfare.

mckinnon rifles

Under the expert guidance and instruction of Lt. Brokovich, the McKinnon Rifles became an excellent unit. The members of the team worked as one large body and not as individuals, which shows a large amount of practice and co-ordination. The team smoothly performs such complex movements as circles, ripples, and vertical movements.

Mile Relay—Campos, Marler, Parker, B., Ogarrio

Track is a sport which requires much stamina, coordination, precision of timing, and power. As shown in the picture above, the Texas Preparatory League Trophy proves that the Kadets were once again the League Champions. These sixteen boys had the will to win; Coach Snowden had ways and the knowledge to lead the team to Victory.

This combination was able to break several League records this season.

... activity

A great game brings a happy team.

Hard work is needed to win

To have a good season is not easy to achieve without both a good team and an equally good cheering section. Peacock has both. While our basketball team won first place honors to be shared with the track team, the entire Corps gave their total and everlasting support.

To watch the game and the camera at the same time is hard.

PLEASE, Mr. Sperry, Col. Felner is the only PMS we have.

Now, Captain Little . . .

. . . What did Andell ever do to you?

Police detective Jim Sperry was nice enough to come to Peacock and give a pistol demonstration which would be enough to discourage any cadet with average intelligence from ever thinking of breaking the law. His excellence with weapons was exceptional.

Our Officers and their dates

many interesting people . . .

During the year many interesting people have visited our campus. These include such personalities as John Hadl, star football player with the San Diego Chargers, Father Neumann, president of St. Mary's University, General Mace of the 4th U. S. Army, Dr. Nail, vice-president of San Antonio College, some very attractive girls from St. Mary's Hall, who borrowed our playground to practice field hockey, and a lady barber, who did a rushing business the week she helped in relief of Archie, our regular, temporarily absent in the hospital.

... visit our campus.

slave day

Take your pick. All are good workers.

The happy (?) slaves take a break.

Slave Day is an eagerly anticipated event at Peacock by all cadets, except perhaps the Lettermen. At an auction, cadets buy these servants after fearful bidding, and then exert their powers as masters-for-a-day.

phelps hall complex

Construction starts . . .

And, finally it is time to clean up.

Progress is slow but steady . . .

And, finally moving starts . . .

Our new Phelps Hall Complex is a new and progressive addition to our growing campus. The new barrack features such things as three phones in booths, multiple showers, rooms with fluorescent desk lamps, and many other features which give the building the appearance of a college dormitory more than that of a barrack. Luxury living comes to Peacock.

gymkhana day comes

Classes rush for the stands one by one.

Capt. Swain receives

Gymkhana Day is one of the most enjoyable days at Peacock. Here cadets may relax and do nothing but have fun.

Classes are forgotten; drill is forgotten. Contests are held to see which class made the best flag.

Rivalry between classes is at a peak, and a few stolen flags are not a rare sight. There just might be a few torn shirts, too, before the day is done.

Seniors display the award-winning banner.

In Gymkhana, each class competes for a trophy through games of skill and coordination. Egg races, sack races, wheelbarrow races, relays of all sorts, are all there. And, to top it off, there is a furious tug-of-war. The victors get a cheer, the loser gets a bath . . . of mud.

Don't drop it, Rakes.

practice and sweat make perfection

The Maes learn, by practice, practice, practice!

Fine drill is not accomplished by just hoping; there are many hours of hard and long work which may have to be repeated many times before it is perfected. That is exactly what all the Cadets at Peacock did this year.

The boys of the Combat Platoon worked long and hard to learn.

These young men learn what will help them in the future to develop their bodies further.

The Combat Platoon's efforts pay off when it counts.

The Macs give a splendid performance.

fiesta week

“battle of flowers”

The Corps of Cadets did a superb job in the "Battle of Flowers Parade" which was a part of Fiesta Week Activities. The five-mile parade was viewed by five-hundred thousand people both on streets and on television. The Corps was complimented by the reviewing staff which commented on the fine military appearance of the Corps.

This parade was only one of the many activities of Fiesta Week which Peacock was asked to take part in. Included was the River Pageant, the Queen's Coronation, and the Annual Dress Parade on our own campus. The entire week was quite enjoyable and well carried out.

The 1963 Junior-Senior Prom was eagerly awaited with great expectations. Happily enough, the Prom was not a disappointment to any of the people who were fortunate enough to attend. The food was fine both in quantity and in quality. The music was very nice and entertaining. Also, the Cadets' company were of typical Peacock taste . . . exceptional!

The Seniors of 1963 move "Front and Center" in a long straight line!

garden party

The Garden Party is the final social function of the year and is attended by students, parents, relatives and friends. It is both a joyous and sad occasion, as many boys after the morrow may part their ways never to meet again.

commencement

At 9:30 A.M., the last day of school, the processional of all the students including the graduates starts the exercises. Colonel Wesley greets the visitors and Tony Martinez delivers his Salutatorian address. Headmaster Richardson awards medals to 1st honor' men.

final exercises

Walter Costello, the Valedictorian, delivers his address; Colonels Wesley and Donald Peacock then present the diplomas to the graduates. The battalion forms its last long line, the final lowering of the flag takes place, silver taps is sounded, and we are adieu by fellow students, faculty and friends.
